Dear Colleagues!

Welcome to the 42nd Annual Conference of the Western Social Science Association! President-Elect Orn Bodvarsson, with the help of the Section Coordinators, has organized a program that reflects the rich diversity and depth of scholarship present in our organization. We also will have the opportunity to hear several outstanding guest speakers at this year's conference.

In addition to sharing research, reaffirming friendships and welcoming new scholars, you have a unique opportunity to visit our host city San Diego. This coastal jewel of a city at the southwest tip of California offers numerous distinctive amenities. Take some time to enjoy them!

April 1, 2000

Dear Colleague:

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 42nd Annual Conference of the Western Social Science Association! I am delighted that you are participating in the WSSA's first conference of the new millennium. I think you will agree with me that this year's program is especially rich and diverse, not only with respect to our many panel sessions in the different disciplinary sections, but also with respect to the many special events that will be of interest to all scholars. This year there are three plenary speakers, three special panel sessions, a book publisher's exhibit and a plenary luncheon session. I hope you will be able to enjoy at least some of these events.

I want to express my gratitude to the nearly 45 Section Coordinators and Co-coordinators for working with me this year in assembling the conference program. Without these fine people, our conference would never have gotten off the ground. I also want to thank my colleagues on the Executive Council for their support, as well as the Town & Country Resort & Convention Center for their helpfulness and cooperation in working out all the many logistical challenges associated with organizing a large academic conference. You all have been a pleasure to work with!

While I'm sure you'll be keeping yourself busy at the conference, do take some time to enjoy our host city, San Diego. San Diego has been called "The Harbor of the Sun", "The Gibraltar of the Pacific" and "America's Finest City" for its natural beauty, relaxed lifestyle, ethnic diversity and many recreational opportunities. Enjoy your time here!

Best Wishes,

Orn B. Bodvarsson
General Program Coordinator
President-Elect, WSSA

Special WSSA Community Panel and Tour
Art and Activism in San Diego: The Chicano Park Story

Friday, April 28
3:15-4:45
Pacific Salon IV

In April of 1970, people of the Barrio Logan in San Diego took possession of the land below the Coronado Bridge to stop the construction of a highway patrol substation. This was the first step in creating Chicano Park, a community space that celebrates Chicana/o history, culture and solidarity. The community's action announced that it would resist outside forces that threatened to increase police surveillance and to push aside local interests. In addition to winning the space for the park, the community adopted the bridge itself as a canvas for public murals involving community artists of all sorts-one of the grandest popular art projects ever accomplished in the U.S.

The panel presentation includes people directly involved in Chicano Park, San Diego, and the transborder region who will discuss the role of art and activism in building Chicana/o community in the past, present and future.

- Moderator, Kee Warner, University of Colorado at Colorado Springs
- Mario Torero, Painter/Sculptor active in Chicano Park
- Richard Griswold del Castillo, San Diego State University
- Manual Mancillas, Trans-border Activist and Musician
- Tommy Camarillo, Chairwoman of the Chicano Park Steering Committee
- Salvador Roberto Torres, Artist involved in the creation of the park

A tour of Chicano Park led by panelists and explanation of the murals will leave the Town & Country at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday morning. Cost for transportation will be $4.00. Sign up at the WSSA registration table.

This WSSA special event is co-sponsored by Urban Studies, Chicano Studies and the Association of Borderland Studies.

In April of 1970, people of the Barrio Logan in San Diego took possession of the land below the Coronado Bridge to stop the construction of a highway patrol substation. This was the first step in creating Chicano Park, a community space that celebrates Chicano/a history, culture, and solidarity. The community's action announced that it would resist outside forces that threatened to increase police surveillance and to push aside local interests. In addition to winning the space for the park, the community adopted the bridge itself as a canvas for public murals involving community artists of all sorts—one of the grandest popular art project ever accomplished in the U.S. This panel presentation includes people involved in Chicano Park who will discuss the role of art and activism in building Chicano/a community in the past, present and future. A tour of Chicano Park led by the panelists and explanation of the murals will be take place on Saturday morning. Advanced registration is required for the tour.

Salvador Roberto Torres, Artist involved in the creation of the park

In April of 1970, people of the Barrio Logan in San Diego took possession of the land below the Coronado Bridge to stop the construction of a highway patrol substation. This was the first step in creating Chicano Park, a community space that celebrates Chicano/a history, culture, and solidarity. The community's action announced that it would resist outside forces that threatened to increase police surveillance and to push aside local interests. In addition to winning the space for the park, the community adopted the bridge itself as a canvas for public murals involving community artists of all sorts-one of the grandest popular art project ever accomplished in the U.S. This panel presentation includes people involved in Chicano Park who will discuss the role of art and activism in building Chicano/a community in the past, present and future. A tour of Chicano Park led by the panelists and explanation of the murals will be take place on Saturday morning. Advanced registration is required for the tour.
